

Perspective of the industry on the current status of insect production for food and feed within EU.

What is the consumer market? what are future challenges/perspectives.

Christophe Derrien is the Secretary General of the International Platform of Insects for Food & Feed (IPIFF)- i.e. the EU umbrella organisation for the insect production sector (based in Brussels). Mr Derrien started to work for IPIFF in January 2015 and manages the Secretariat of the association since August 2016. Native from Bittany in Western France, Christophe has a legal background, with a specialization in EU and agri-food legislation. After performing short professional missions at the French Ministry of Agriculture and at the European Commission (DG AGRI), Christophe has been working for the EU Federation for farmers and agri-cooperatives (Copa-Cogeca) from 2009 until 2013: his main responsibilities included EU food and feed safety subjects. Then, Christophe worked as a consultant on EU projects related to food sustainability (from 2013 until 2015)".

www.insecta.apez.pt

Christophe Derrien

Is the Secretary General of the International Platform of Insects for Food & Feed (IPIFF)- i.e. the EU umbrella organisation for the insect production sector (based in Brussels). Mr Derrien started to work for IPIFF in January 2015 and manages the Secretariat of the association since August 2016.

Native from Bittany in Western France, Christophe has a legal background, with a specialization in EU and agri-food legislation. After performing short professional missions at the French Ministry of Agriculture and at the European Commission (DG AGRI), Christophe has been working for the EU Federation for farmers and agri-cooperatives (Copa-Cogeca) from 2009 until 2013: his main responsibilities included EU food and feed safety subjects. Then, Christophe worked as a consultant on EU projects related to food sustainability (from 2013 until 2015).